Wa'ter S. Lovejoy, of Tapleyville, Mass, who has lately been brought so prominently before our people.

Mr. Lovejoy is of an illustrious family. Indeed, the brilliant and scholarly Prof. Lovejoy, of Macoo (ta.) University is no other than his son. The professor, in passing through town, spoke feelingly of his father's recent serious illness, and bodicame enthusiastic concerning his restoration to health. He stated that it was perfectly wonderful to see the change in his father's health since he took the well-known medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura block and nerve remedy.

And the Hon. Mr. Lovejoy himself was found overflowing with grantinde toward this great remedy.

We emphatically indorse Mr. Lovejov's advice, The sick and suffring should by all means use Dr. Greene's Nervora blood and nerve genedy, for if the disease is curable this truly remarkable medicine will certainly care. It is indeed the great health and strength giver. All druggists keep it for 5:

Indians know nothing of those harmful drugs, and could not use them if they Indian has learned to use.

The medicine you take into your system should be to strengthen and build it up, not merely to stimulate it, and add the fuel of poison to the consuming flames of disease.
Indians don't have Dyspepsia, yet they eat anything and everything, at all times and order all conditions. Indians don't have Malaria, yet they sleep out of doors, exposed to night air, live in damp places, and frequent changes are quite common to their mode of life.

Yet both these ailments and many others that the red men never have are frequently found among white people. How is it with the Indian?

Knowing the value of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa he keeps it constantly with him and when his system feels run down, needs toning up as we say, the Indian takes a few doses of Segwa. He keeps well! He don't wait until danger overtakes him, but craftly watches for its approach and wards off the attack. Here is a lesson to profit by. Kickapoo Indian Sagwa, DEEMED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Wenders Worked by Mrs. Brown, the Treasury Export in Washington—A Few Cases in Which Bills Were Apparently Hopelessly Destroyed. The redemption division of the treasury department is one of the most inter-isting of its branches. It is here that mutilated money comes for identificatells to the chief of the division many a romance and many a tale of woe. There much that is humorous and much that is pathetic in Mrs. Brown's public experience. That experience ranges over nearly eighteen years now, and in that time millions of dollars have passed through her hands, most of it in such condition as to be beyond identification by ordinary means.

HOW DAMAGED CURRENCY IS RE-

There is hardly any way you can think of in which money is not matilated or partly destroyed. Men light their cigars with it when they ree drunk; rats graw it into tatters, and fire crisps it into brown ashes. Wherever there is a sudden cold snap at the beginning of winter the redemption division has a perfect harvest of mutilated money. One of the favorite hiding places which women have for their savings is the oven. When a cold day comes the woman probably forgets all about the money, builds a fire in the stove and cooks the bills to what is known in the cookbook as a "rich brown."

An ir teresting case is that of a woman living near Hamilton, O., who was burned to death. She had a pocketbook nurned to death. She had a pocketbook with fer containing seventy dollars. Her children bent the pocketbook with its charred contents to the treasury department, and Mrs. Br wm picked out the seventy dellars and dentified it. A great deal of the money that comes in is partly, surned. Wherever a part of the burned money can be identified and a satisfactory affidavit is furnished as to the facts the government restores the amount to the owner. But if a note is entirely destroyed the government is just so much ahead. Much of the money which comes in for redentition has been damaged in rail-road wrecks. When a car is burned in a railroad wreck no attempt is made by the express company to remove the money from the safe. The safe is sent direct to the treasury department and opened there. The money is usually in a pretty badly charred condition. It is taken out, and the treasury experts go over it and identify as much of it as can be récognizel. Two years ago a package containing $22,000 was taken from a wrecs near St. Louis, and all of the money was identified and restored to its

A favorite hiding place for money with men who have no faith in banks is in their cellars. A Philadelphia man sent $290 which be had buried in a tin box under his tellar floor. When he took up the box he found the money mildewed and rotten. The package as it came into Mrs. Brown's hands looked like a bunch of tobacco leaves. It was almost impossible to distinguish the character of the notes with the naked eye. Mrs. Brown was picking agart the pieces but by bit and arranging them on slips of brown paper cut to the size of a dollar bill. I She said that she expected to identify the whole of it.

One man sent in some time ago forty-two dollars which has been taken from the stomach of a goat. The goat was not worth forty-two dollars, so he was sacri-ficed. The identification of this money was not a very nice task, but it was comparatively an easy one. When Mrs. Brown dropped the sticky mass into n basin of water the bills came apart and were very easily identified. This is not the only goat case which has come to the redemption division, and it has happened that even cows and pigs have been sacrifixed to recover money which they had swallowed. There is one case on record swallowed. There is one case on record where a baby swalle wed some bank ndtes, and an emetic saved the money and possibly the baby. Babies do not often swallow ship-entire bill, but many affidavits are received accompaning purtions of bills which say that the missing portions were swallowed by babies and. portions were swallowed by babies and therefore wholly destroyed."
Usually when mutilated money is sent in for redemption the owner has a close if not perfect idea of the amount which is represented, but one old German in the west sent in some years ago what he claimed to be the remains of $5,000, and after a long, long investigation Mrs. Brown fully identified $7,100 in the package. A secret service agent was sent out to irvestigate the case, but be could discover nothing that would throw light upon the mystery, and so the mistake was charged up to the old man's stupidity, and the department sent $7,100

The redemption division receives very frequently pieces torn from hills, accompanied by affidavits saying that the remainder of the notes has been destroy-ed by mice. But the experts of the treasury department can tell in a minute whether a piece has been torn off or eaten off, and these petty frauds are never suc-

Treasurer Nebeker has a five dollar bill in his office made of sixteen pieces cut from five dollar notes matched so nicely that the ordinary eye would not detect the fraud. This composite note was sent in by a bank clerk in New York. The treasury experts detected the fraud immediately, and of course the bogus note was not redeemed.—Washington Cor. New York Press.

Jennie Gardner is a very fine-looking woman, and while at Chicago da a two weeks' visit, met a coal-dealer named Ki neham, who is a widower with three children. She promised to marry him, privided he would come to Napoleon, Ohio, to have the nuptials performed. They arrived on the East Line in the night and Jennie, having secured $800 which he had drawn for the r welding tour, succeeded in getting off the train without him, while he was compelled to go on to him, while he was compelled to go on to Toledo. Returning by the next train, he had her arrested for stealing the money.

When arraigned before the Mayor she induced Kilineham to withdraw the charge, promising she would marry him in Toledo. She claimed to hope left the money at Napoleon and wildy importuned him to go back and get it. He went, and after vainly coaxing de nies mamma to produce the money, re urned to Toledo, only to flud his lady leve also missing. Disgusted, the aged woner returned to Chicage "strappe," while Jennie is without doubt enjoying the color of his money in some eastern city.
